

The Lymniad

Edited by JOHN FOWLES and
JOHN CONSTABLE

CONTENTS

Preface by Stephen Locke.....	vii
Editorial Acknowledgements.....	viii
“Lyme in the Early 1800s” by John Fowles.....	1
General Introduction by John Constable	6
Textual Note	60
THE LYMIAD	61
Preface	63
Contents	65
Dramatis Personae	67
“Letter One”	71
“Letter Two”	77
“Letter Three”	81
“Letter Four”	89
“Letter Five”	97
“Letter Six”	113
“Letter Seven”	123
“Letter Eight”	139
Editorial Notes.....	143
List of Subscribers	191

THE LYMIAD

A poem in the form of Letters from Lyme to a friend at Bath written during the autumn of 1818

“But say, what bark is that, which now
Passes the Oriana’s bow?”
That “Blood-red flag” which gaily floats
On the full-swelling breeze, denotes
The Conrad, Sir Fopling Fossil’s pride . . .

The Lymiad, “Letter Three”

LYME
REGIS MUSEUM

ISBN 978-0-9527662-1-6

9 780952 766216 >